Law officers careful in illegal tag checks

BY TRACI BONNEY

When the county's three law enforcement offices — the Hancock County Sheriff's Department and the Bay St. Louis and Waveland Police Departments — start to crack down on people whose vehicles are illegally tagged in coming weeks, they will use several tried-and-true methods to nab offenders.

The officers will be watching for expired or switched tags, as well as Louisiana tags on cars registered to Mississippi residents.

Sometimes — as in cases involving expired or switched license plates — an illegal tag is easily discovered. If a car is found to have such an illegal tag, the driver is immediately ticketed.

However, cases involving Louisiana tags on cars registered to Mississippi residents are not always that simply resolved. Sheriff's Department Investigator Delbert Seay said many of the tag checks are not on-the-spot matters. When a vehicle is

BSL downtown grant given go ahead

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Bay St. Louis City Council contracted with the Mississippi Downtown Development Association Monday for a $25,000 in-services grant.

Clerk of Council Michael Cuevas said the downtown development grant will address the revitalization needs of three targeted areas: Highway 90, the old train depot and the downtown historic district.

"The grant is for them to provide us with technical assistance on site target assessments," she said.

She told council members the city would have the option to accept or reject resulting proposals, as they see fit.

The program will be implemented through four steps:

organization, design, promotion and economic restructuring.

Review of the city docket occupied the majority of time during Monday's council meeting.

District 2 Councilman James Thriffley questioned why drug task force funds were not used to pay for the city's two cellular phones, one used by the mayor and one by the city's drug task force representative.

Mayor Eddie Favre explained the county managed the money accumulated through drug confiscations, and the city paid for individual officers' needs.

Thriffley also requested additional information on other payments, including: 40 rolls of

District requests Vo-Tech millage

BY TRACI BONNEY

The Hancock County School District needs money.

Superintendent Myrna Bourgeois asked the board of supervisors Thursday for funds to maintain and repair the vocational-technical center Pearl River Community College turned over to the district at the beginning of the school year.

The county had been giving 0.26 mills to the college for the maintenance of the building, but when the college relinquished its hold on the center, the money was rerouted to the road and bridge fund because the supervisors weren't sure they could legally give it to the school district.

Bourgeois asked the supervisors to earmark that millage in the fiscal year 1993 budget for the school district's use to maintain the vo-tech center, since

Trout and Red keep sizes pass committee

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

The State House of Representatives Conservation and Water Resources Committee passed the lowering of size limitations on both Speckle Trout and Redfish Tuesday.

"The bill now goes to the floor of the house for discussion and a vote," reported Rep. J.P. Compretta.

House Bill 1079, proposed by Compretta, calls for a reduction in the minimum size of Speckle Trout from the present 14 inches to 12 inches and Redfish from 22 inches to 16 inches.

Present limits were set by regulation drafted by state fisheries managers.

Sen. Vic Frankiewicz reported Wednesday that the Senate too, has before it a proposal for a change in size limitations on Speckle Trout and Redfish. The Senate Bill asks that

Harrison dockside passage pleases Bay mayor, others

BY TRACI BONNEY

The reaction in Hancock County to the passage of dockside gambling in Harrison County is a positive one among developers and others.

Bay St. Louis Mayor Eddie Favre commented Wednesday, "I'm excited about it. The passage of dockside gaming in Harrison County will relieve some of the pressure from us in terms of visitation that we could not have accommodated. It kind of spreads the numbers up and down the entire Coast."

"Another thing is that with the passage of dockside comes more competition for the developers. More competition means a high quality of development will be needed for the developer to have any customers, and that high quality is what we want."

Bayou Caddy developer George Baxter stated, "I was happy that it passed there. I would be happier if we could get in business first."

Baxter added he doesn't think dockside gambling in Harrison County will negatively affect his business.

"I really think it will be beneficial to the Coast to have several locations, because you will have more of an attraction for more people."

Bay Cove representative Len Krick concurred. "We believe each of the properties will benefit even more than if they were on their own."

Dockside gambling passed in Harrison County Tuesday on a vote of 24,282 in favor and 18,018 against. The special election for the issue drew a high turnout, 60 percent of the registered voters.

Drug abusers beware. The Bay St. Louis City Council authorized payment Wednesday of up to $3,500 for a black labrador retriever named Buddy that will be used by the police department as a canine drug detection officer.

Police Chief Frank McNeil said Officer Jeff Hair will act as Buddy's trainer and partner, and added Buddy is capable of detecting several types of illegal drugs, including cocaine (both powder and crack), hashish and marijuana.

The Council also briefly reviewed a proposed citywide gaming ordinance Wednesday during the workshop session.

City gaming attorney Donald Rafferty presented the 40-page document to the councilmen and pointed out some of its

Board re-elects Penrose, Wilcox

BY TRACI BONNEY

The Bay St. Louis-Waveland school board voted unanimously Monday to re-elect Linda Penrose as board president and James Wilcox as the secretary.

The board also voted unanimously to allow teachers and administrators to join an education funding rally in Jackson Wednesday.

The board decided to call Wednesday a "professional non-school day," meaning that the students got the day off; the teachers could either go to Jackson or take the day off; and administrators had to either go to Jackson or go to work as usual.

May 29 was set as the make-up day for teachers and students.

In other matters, the board:

—discussed and approved several district policy amendments, dealing with issues from academic to faculty to food services;

—approved the 1992-1993 school year calendar; agreed to provide wiring for an air conditioning unit to be supplied by the North Bay Elementary P.T.O. for the school's cafeteria;

—approved a sole source supplier for Writing to Read program work journals; accepted low bids for several pieces of cafeteria equipment;

—approved the summer feeding program and the filings of two accidents with the State Department's accident contingency fund for school districts;

—approved the February meetings minutes and claims docket;

—approved several resignations, hirings recommendations, two requests for catastrophic leave and two student transfers from the Pass Christian school district;

—held an executive session to discuss personnel matters; and set a special meeting for April 6, 7 p.m., which Penrose urged all administrators to attend.

The board then adjourned.

Hancock 'Drive for Education' this week at Gerry Lane Motors

Hancock High and Junior High has the opportunity this week to receive free Apple computers, Magnavox audio-visual equipment or Compton's Encyclopedias from Gerry Lane Motors in Bay St. Louis.

"Driving for Education" is a program designed to address the growing need for more computers and related educational tools in elementary and secondary schools, said A.C. Adam, Gerry Lane Motors general manager.

According to Coach Irvin Farve, HHS head football coach and drivers education instructor, the school's goal is to receive computers.

Hancock High and Junior High School parents and friends are encouraged to visit Gerry Lane and test drive a vehicle March 16 through 21. When a pre-determined number of "proof of drive" certificates are tallied, the school may select equipment from five different award levels.

There is no limit to the amount of free awards a school may receive.

Gerry Lane is one of a number of Chevrolet/Geo dealerships nationwide offering the "Driving for Education" program. The program is open to all public, private and parochial schools in the Gerry Lane service area.

BSH track season begins

The Bay High boys track teams will open their 1992 season by participating in the d'Iberville Invitational Meet on Monday.

The high school team will be defending the District 8 Class 3A Championship which it earned in 1991.

The junior high squad will be trying to improve on its second place finish in the Coast Junior High Conference last year.

Coach Rocky Gaudin stated,

"We are entering as many meets as possible this year and we are going to work very hard to make a good showing in each of them."

"The young men on these squads are very proud of doing what it takes to build a strong track program at Bay High."

"The squad and coaches truly believe that what we accomplish in our track program will benefit other sports programs."

stopped at a roadblock, an illegal tag may not be immediately obvious.

"When we stop a vehicle, if we have reason to suspect that the tag is illegal, we will take down the driver's name and license number, as well as the vehicle tag number, then run a check on them later. We check several things — whether or not the person claims homestead exemption in Mississippi and whether or not he or she has kids in school are two of our best ways of finding out."

"If we find that the tag is illegal, a ticket will be issued to the driver."

Say said most of the roadblocks that will be conducted will be done at entrance/exit areas for neighborhoods, and will be conducted during weekdays.

"Weekenders from Louisiana, who have homes here but don't claim homestead exemption in Mississippi, don't have to worry. They don't need to back their cars into the driveways, because we don't conduct house-to-house checks."

Sheriff Ronnie Peterson announced the crackdown on illegal tags two weeks ago and explained some of the reasons for it.

"When people buy car tags in Louisiana but live in Mississippi, they're cheating the county and state out of tax revenues. Also, we've had numerous complaints from people who get their tags, then look across the street and see their neighbor's car with a Louisiana tag on it," Peterson stated.

He said a person has 30 days after moving into Mississippi to buy a county car tag, and 60 days to obtain a Mississippi driver's license.

Last year, the Bay St. Louis Police Department took advantage of the schools by conducting roadblocks in the mornings and afternoons, when parents delivered their children to and picked them up from school. Detective David Parker said the effort was very successful; many people have since obtained Mississippi tags.

enact the initiative as submitted, or modify it. If the initiative is changed by the Legislature, both the original version and the modified version would go before the voters who would ultimately decide.

Because of legislative deadlines, a number of bills died in committee this past week. Two bills were of major interest to the Coast. One bill would have set up the mechanics of the lottery, and it would have kicked in if the voters approved the lottery in November.

The other bill would have plugged loopholes in our gambling laws to improve the integrity of dockside casino regulations. These bills are dead for the session, unless they are revived by extraordinary parliamentary procedures.

The Senate took no action on the controversial Education Stabilization Act of 1992. This bill would reduce the length of the school year, increase class size, and roll back or delay a host of educational reforms enacted in the last several years. The bill will be debated early during the week of March 16.

I am eager to hear your views on the legislation before us. I can be reached at the Capitol at 359-3454. Letters should be sent to P.O. Box 1018, Jackson, MS 39215.

the board has found out — according to chancery clerk Mike Necaise — that it can give the money to the district.

The supervisors said they will consider her request.

EPILEPSY FOUNDATION
Treva Smart with the Epilepsy Foundation of South Mississippi asked for and received board support for a local and private bill that will allow the board to donate up to $10,000 a year to the Foundation for services in Hancock County.

Smart emphasized the local and private bill will not obligate the board to give the funds, but will simply allow the donation if the board so deems.

The board had already approved such a resolution last year, but rescinded it before any action could occur in the State Legislature, saying they were concerned the bill might open the board up to requests from dozens of organizations.

At Thursday's meeting, the board decided to again pass the resolution, and approved it unanimously.

OTHER BUSINESS

The board:

—approved a request by Cal Gex for Hancock County Wastewater District No. 1 to place a modular classroom on property adjacent to the county equipment barn behind the Civic Center on Longfellow Drive;

—approved a blanket easement granting Steep Hollow Water Works the right to install a water main system on county rights of way, contingent on county engineer Larry Seal's approval;

—took under advisement a request from the sheriff's department to purchase two canine officers;

—discussed a road project in Diamondhead;

—approved low quotes on a pump, dry hydrant materials and the purchase of a copier;

—approved the March 1-15 payroll, paychecks for the election commissioners and poll workers, and the addition to the March docket of a check for $7,000 as down payment for Bay Side Park Volunteer Fire Department's new firefighting truck.

The board recessed until March 31.

highlights. He said in his opening remarks that the ordinance was based on four sets of laws and regulations: Mississippi gaming law, Gaming Commission regulations, Clark County, Nevada, ordinances and South Dakota laws.

He reminded the Council that the ordinance is not set in stone at this point, and that changes can be made.

The ordinance as proposed includes provisions establishing taxation of gaming revenues, a gaming device/machine tax and a per passenger boarding fee. Mayor Eddie Favre said the Council may instead opt to enact separate ordinances and make reference to them in the gaming document.

After mentioning several ideas and concerns, the councilmen set a workshop for 5:30 p.m. Monday at Rafferty's suggestion. He pointed out to them that this will give them time to study the proposed ordinance and formulate their questions.

OTHER BUSINESS

Prior to the workshop, the Council held a meeting to continue from the adjournment of Monday's regular meeting.

During the meeting portion that preceded the workshop, the Council passed a resolution in support of a measure to lower speckled trout and redfish size limits to those currently in use in Louisiana. The measure, which is due to be taken up for a vote in the House soon, has found a large backing from Coastal commercial fishermen.

In other business the council approved:

—advertisement, up to $350, for a sign at McDonald Field;

—advertisement for bids on disposal of surplus property, to be either on separate items or on group items;

—employment of part time janitorial services for City Hall; and the appointment of Maurice Singleton to the Community Action Agency.

Frankiewicz said he is not sure how he feels about the proposal since it allows Mississippi to depend on the judgement of others. "If they maintain responsible limits it would be fine, but what if they act irresponsibly."

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

It is good to see the Bay St. Louis City Hall employees got together and decided to make the building smoke-free.

More and more buildings are being made smoke-free, and this is good for our health, all the experts say.

Still there are many who have the habit of smoking. To quit smoking is not an easy task, because I can remember the many times I tried to stop before I was successful some 20 years ago.

I admire the city hall employees for taking the action necessary to ban smoking.

Guess what? The employees of the Hancock County Courthouse could very easily do the same, if they desired.

Better yet, the board of supervisors could ban smoking in the courthouse.

Those of us who have problems with smoke, second hand or otherwise, really appreciate a no-smoking environment.

This is the time of year when boating fever begins to spread about the area.

Along these lines, the United States Coast Guard Auxiliary Flotilla No. 35 will offer a free boating safety and seamanship course starting on March 18 at the Pass Christian Yacht Club.

The course consists of 12 lessons and will cover all phases of safe boating, including navigation, piloting, charts, radio, etc. Registration begins at 6 p.m.

This is a good family activity and I am hoping there will be many from our area who take this opportunity to learn more about boating.

FROM THE MISSISSIPPI SENATE

By Senator
Vic Franckiewicz

House approval needed to transfer funds to education

The Senate took a major step this week to restore funds to education. We voted to transfer nearly $17 million from special funds to the general fund to make the money available to spend on education.

Significantly, $12 million of this transfer is coming from the Highway Department's cash balance of $140 million. Until our current financial crisis, highway funds were considered untouchable.

The fact that the $12 million transfer was approved by the Senate is a sign of how serious the situation is. It is also a sign that we are finally willing to consider taking money from politically sacred cows and putting it into education.

If approved by the House of Representatives, this transfer of money will only scratch the surface of the educational funding problem. But it is a start.

The Senate also passed a constitutional amendment to reschedule state and county elections to even-numbered years between presidential elections. The elections would be held with the congressional races.

If passed by the House and approved by the voters, this bill would reduce the number of elections and would save millions of dollars statewide.

Initiative and referendum took a small step forward this week when the Senate Constitution Committee sent a limited version of initiative to the full Senate. The measure now before us would allow only constitutional amendments to be initiated by the people by a petition signed by 12 percent of the voters in the last governor's race.

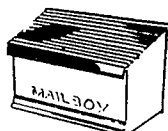

The initiative would be an indirect one: the initiative would go to the Legislature first. The Legislature could

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Admission of non-veterans to VA hospitals was bad idea

To the Editor:

Recently the Veterans Administration in Washington submitted plans to admit non-veterans to VA hospitals. This project was strongly opposed by all veterans who feared this plan would greatly diminish the quality of health care in VA hospitals for honorably discharged veterans. Also, many veterans with non-service connected illness must have preference over non-veterans.

Because of the hard work of the veterans and veterans organizations this plan has been defeated and scrapped.

I would like to thank John and Lou Wilkinson from American Legion and Auxiliary Post 139 in Bay St. Louis, who on a recent trip to Washington D.C., voiced their opposition to this plan. Also, special thanks to all the veterans who assisted me by calling and writing letters to the members of Congress urging them to defeat this ill-advised plan.

Yours Sincerely,
Roland C. Wohlschlegel Service Officer for American Legion Post 139

HMC does not deserve criticism it receives

Dear Editor:

In spite of the bad reputation given to Hancock Medical Center by most of my acquaintances, who readily admit that their opinions are based on hearsay, I gambled and admitted myself when an emergency arose.

Immediately upon arrival by ambulance and after informing the medics of my symptoms, they did all the right things to make me comfortable until my doctor arrived in a flash.

My doctor was selected by one of the medics because I haven't lived here long enough to know any doctors. He made an excellent choice because my suffering began to abate immediately, thanks to the expert procedures performed by this heavenly angel of mercy. Here on earth he is known as Doctor Joseph R. Lee.

I remained at the center for five days under the superb care of a sympathetic staff which went out of its way to make me feel at home. Such personal treatment is unheard of in a big city hospital.

Hancock Medical Center does not deserve the bum rap it is getting from too many of my friends and acquaintances who don't know what they are talking about.

I feel secure knowing that this wonderful facility is so close to where I live.

This is just another reason which makes the Bay "A Place Apart."

Sincerely,
Nicholas T. Haas Jr.

Girl Scout director asks for continued support of UW

To the Editor:

At a time when United Way of America is facing difficult times, I feel it is appropriate for Gulf Pines Girl Scout Council to comment as an agency funded by the United Way of Hancock County.

Each year United Way agencies in Hancock County touch literally thousands of people in need. Whether the need is as basic as shelter or as intangible as building self-esteem, these needs can not be ignored. Nor can we ignore the fact that without the United Way of Hancock County many of these agencies would not exist.

I would like to commend the volunteers and staff of the United Way of Hancock County. Annually hundreds of volunteers are involved, not only in the fund-raising campaign, but in reviewing agency needs and budget requirements.

United Way volunteers give more than their time—they share their expertise. In addition, United Way plays a vital role in bringing the agencies of Hancock County together eliminating duplication of services.

It is important that Hancock Countians continue to support our United Way—it makes a big difference in Hancock County.

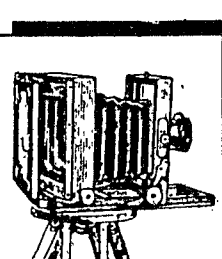

Sincerely,
Kitty Mauffray
Executive Director
Gulf Pines Girl Scout Council

CLUBS, AUXILIARIES

Pass Christian Garden Club

The Pass Christian Garden Club celebrated Arbor Day this year by planting several varieties of trees in the court yard of the Pass Christian High School February 14 to enhance the beauty of the school and to provide shade for the students during their class breaks.

One live oak tree was planted to replace a tree that had to be cut down because it was diseased. When this is done, it is called "re-leaving", which means that anyone in the city must replace a tree with one of the same species.

The Garden Club was assisted in the planting of the trees by members of the City Tree Board: Shirley Doe, chairman of the board; Wes Jones, Jeff Taylor and Gertrude Brown. Others assisting included high school principal Adrian Swanier, mayor's representative Ken Saucier (Mayor Ted Lawyer was ill), and Garden Club president Mary Catherine Ward.

Prior to the planting of the trees, Mrs. Doe gave a talk on the history of Arbor Day.

Ken Saucier read a proclamation naming Pass Christian as a "Tree City U.S.A." for the third consecutive year. This is a great honor and entails a considerable amount of work to obtain this status. Communities qualify that meet the following standards:

1. Must have a city tree ordinance.
2. Must have a City Tree Board designated by the mayor.
3. Must have an Urban Forestry Program.
4. Must have an official recognition of Arbor Day.

The flag designating Pass Christian as a "Tree City U.S.A." was displayed and it will be hung in front of City Hall or War Memorial Park.

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire
Caire

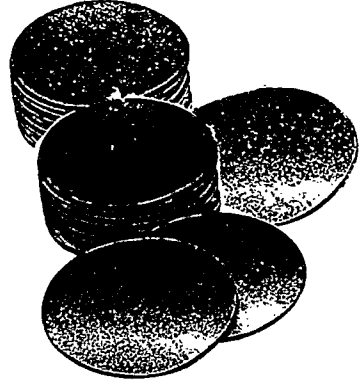

St. Patrick's Day, that exuberant occasion when just about everyone becomes an Irishman for the day, is celebrated with far more fanfare in our country than in all of Ireland on that day.

In our country, as you know, we start celebrating St. Patrick's Day ahead of time with parades and rousing music and parties and mountains of corned beef and cabbage, and even in some quarters, "green beer." But, in Ireland, St. Patrick's Day is more of a religious holiday honoring the country's patron saint.

And, in place of corned beef and cabbage, you're more apt to find salmon, smoked or otherwise, at table; for that's said to be the national dish of Ireland, held in high esteem ever since the days of the great kings and chieftains of old Ireland and always the highlight of their lavish banquets.

So, on this St. Patrick's Day, I shall probably dine on corned beef and cabbage, but shall first enjoy a bit of smoked salmon as an appetizer! And, of course, I shall have potatoes on the menu, as well, for this hearty vegetable has been a mainstay of the Irish diet ever since the 17th century, when potatoes were brought to Ireland from the New World.

So, I'll probably start my day with those potato pancakes which the Irish call "Boxty Pancakes," akin to their "boxty" bread. Here's:

BOXTY PANCAKES

3 medium baking potatoes
1 egg, beaten
1/2 cup unsifted flour
Salt, pepper to your taste
1/2 tsp. caraway seed
Oil for frying
Peel the potatoes and place in a bowl of cold water as they are peeled. Working with one potato at a time, of course, pat dry and grate coarsely into a bowl containing the beaten egg. Mix in the flour, salt and pepper and the caraway seed.

Pour enough oil into a large skillet (or onto griddle) to coat the bottom generously, and heat over moderate heat. For each pancake, add two tablespoons of batter, approximately, to the hot oil, and spread thin with the back of a spoon. Cook for 3 minutes on each side, or until golden brown, adding oil as needed. (12 to 14 pancakes).

(I also like these potato cakes with thin slices of corned beef). And, for a variation on the corned beef and cabbage theme—try corned beef and cabbage salad. Mix shredded raw cabbage and julienne strips of cooked corned beef with diced bell (green) pepper, dressing well with a well-seasoned oil and vinegar mixture.

I like to use up the leftover corned beef in a corned beef hash, with lots of chopped onion spicing up the potatoes and the whole mixture browned to a crusty turn in my old iron skillet. With hot buttered biscuits, this is a meal for any time of day, at least for me.

Weight Loss Surprises Researchers

WASHINGTON — A nutrition organization was hopeful that a nutritionally complete "hi-tech" food tablet would help erase world hunger problems, until a study revealed that one of the ingredients could cause significant weight loss.

Although other studies and scientists may not agree, researchers in Europe found that the ingredient, a natural plant, colloid, actually caused people to lose weight, even though specifically instructed not to alter normal eating patterns, according to one study published in the prestigious British Journal of Nutrition. Researchers in an earlier study had speculated that the weight loss was due to a decrease in the intestinal absorption of calories.

While the project of National Dietary Research, aptly named Food Source One, would not be used to successfully fulfill its original goal, the formula which has since been improved with other natural colloids, has been a windfall for some overweight people. A Daytona Beach, Florida woman fighting a weight battle for 12 years used the product on the recommendation of her physician and lost 30 pounds. She stated, "Not only have I lost 30 pounds but my cholesterol has dropped from 232 to 143. I have two closets full of clothes which have not fit me in two years that I can now wear."

In a separate report, a telephone interview revealed that a Wilmington, North Carolina pharmacist lost 14 pounds in 3 weeks on the product and was never hungry.

Food Source One tablets are part of National Dietary Research's comprehensive plan to bring a rapid end to obesity in this country. A variety of nutritionally sound diet plans, specially prepared by NDR, accompany each bottle and provide a natural, drug free alternative for confronting the problem of obesity.

In Bay St. Louis, everybody is familiar with the dog ordinance which was framed and approved by the present administration. It was thought the ordinance would rid the city of its curs running all over the streets.

There still is a large number of dogs running wild without licenses. The Echo and the community wants to know whose job it is to enforce the ordinance.

The city must do one or the other - see that the ordinance is enforced or money refunded those whom were made to pay.

God the ultimate opiate

"Religion is the opiate of the people," said Karl Marx derisively over a century ago. Christians, understandably, took a dim view of his assessment of their beliefs.

Now it turns out that there are Christians who actually think, with conditions, that the old boy was not far afield in point of fact, though distinctively hostile in his intent.

The Rev. Leo Booth, an Episcopal priest who specializes in counseling addicts, shared some of his life's gleanings with participants at a workshop on "Maintaining Self-balance," and almost sounded like an echo of Karl Marx in the process.

His comments are some of the most recent in a long line which hammer us about our proneness to codependency, if not in one thing, in some other. Codependency is the buzz word of today for our many compulsions and addictions.

You know that you are codependent if you feel the need for external validation, seeking affirmation and respect from people or things apart from yourself.

You are also codependent if you are seeking a "fixer," another person or something to "fix" your life.

Other indicators are the inability to identify or express your needs, the fear of risk or rejection, the inability to function without being involved in a relationship, or the use of sex to gain approval.

None of us has any problem understanding how skewed all of these symptoms are. What we may have to wrestle with is Rev. Booth's observation that many believers are religious addicts who use God as a fix. Shades of Karl Marx!

Beware, he warns us, if you believe that only God and Jesus can make you well, even without a doctor or therapist.

Again, if you think that women are inferior to men, that alcoholics are sinners and that drug addicts are evil, you had better beware, because you are into codependency.

Pointing fingers is an easy matter, but Rev. Booth begins by revealing himself as a victim of religious abuse.

But wait! Aren't we talking about addition to God? How does religious abuse creep into the equation?

Very easily. If you are afflicted with codependency, you are a wide target for religious abuse. Any religious addict can come along and make you feel guilty, make you feel ashamed, make you feel like a sinner without hope.

Fanatics, of course, are the first people who come to mind as we reflect on the thoughts of Rev. Booth. Religious fanatics of any stamp have a way of inflicting religious abuse, even on those who are not addicted to God as a "fixer."

All the more, the God addicts are deeply susceptible to the guilt trips laid on them by fanatics who themselves cannot control their compulsions to believe and do what they feel they must do under the threat of sanctions.

Still, even as I write, a gospel song is running through my head: "Jesus on the main line: tell him what you want. Call him up and tell him what you want!"

One of the most popular gospel songs, this one seems to feed right into the codependent symptom of God as a "fixer."

This is a grey area where prayer can indeed be a strong symptom of God addiction, or an indicator of faithful dependence on God, accompanied by all reasonable human efforts.

REFLECTIONS ON LIFE

By Father Jerome LeDoux, SVD

A DIFFERENT VIEW

By Traci Bonney

You-ology

My topic today is a break from my usual commentary, but I feel that someone reading this needs to hear what I have to say.

If you have a child in school, you've probably heard of Meology.

Meology is a course designed to boost a child's self-esteem and teach him/her basic self-defense, as in how to say "No" and mean it when someone tries to touch the child in a wrong way or persuade him/her to try something the child knows is bad (like drugs).

Well, here's a little bit of You-ology.

Do you realize just how special you are? Do you know how much God had to go through to prepare for your existence on this earth?

Even if you have some sort of disability or physically or mentally challenging condition, the fact that you are here means that God has a reason for you to be here.

If you don't want to take my word for it, just read this excerpt from the March issue of Reader's Digest:

"Next time you're feeling rather unimportant, try a little arithmetic trick based on the undebatable fact that it took two people, your parents, to get you here. Each of your parents has two parents, so in the generation just prior to that of your mother and father, there were four people whose pairing off and sharing love contributed to your existence.

"You are the product of eight great-grandparents, 16 great-great-grandparents, 32 great-great-great-grandparents, etc. Keep on multiplying the number by two. If you figure an average of about 25 years between each generation, you'll discover that a scant 500 years ago, there were 1,048,576 people on this planet beginning the production of you."

This passage, quoted from Rev. Gene Britton in Georgia, makes you think, doesn't it? Well, if it doesn't, it should.

Today, with so many people at odds over whether or not a woman should have the right to abort an unborn child, Rev. Britton's mathematics make it pretty clear that you were not the product of only your mother.

This isn't meant to be a pro-life column, although I am pro-life. This is meant to show you just how special you are.

Do you realize that if just one of those people in your ancestral line had not been there, you might not be here? If you want to believe that God doesn't care about you and doesn't keep his loving hand right smack dab in the middle of your life, that's up to you.

But if that's what you believe, you're flying in the face of cold, hard mathematical facts.

He does love you, and he does want you here.

He employed more than 1,048,576 people just to make sure you were born.

THE ANIMALS PORTRAY THE MIRACLE OF GOD'S CREATION

With spring just around the corner and the world coming alive again, it's time to reflect upon the incredible intelligence that God has bestowed on the animal kingdom. The birds are returning from their flight south for the winter, with no maps to point out the directions, liberating animals will be waking up from their long naps without any alarm clocks. It is arranged, without a calendar, that many animals are born in the spring, when there is ideal weather and an abundance of food. And so on, God gave man the ability to understand these achievements, and He asks only that we respect them. At your House of Worship, learn that all of this illustrates the wonder of God's creation, and that along with the animals, we are a vital part of it.

False to thee, my love, for all thy creatures — St. Francis of Assisi
God made every thing that creepeth upon the earth, and saw that it was good — Genesis 1:25
